Cold Snap Blamed for 50 Deaths; 35 of Them In Fires

By United Press

A sub-freezing cold wave the worst in more than two decades, gripped the "outhland for the second straight night, claiming a heavy toll of lives and damage to crops.

Dixie residents shivered in temperatures in the teens as far south as Eastern Georgia early today. Temperatures plunged into the 20s in upper Florida where crop damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

The two-day cold wave, the bitterest southern freeze since 1934 was expected to break today with the advance of a western warming trend.

The cold snap has been blamed for more than 50 deaths, at least 36 of them in fires as southerners overtaxed heating units in an effort to keep warm. Others died from exposure and in traffic accidents on snow-slicked roads.

Florida's 300-million-dollar vegetable crop was hardest hit by the frigid winds which sent readings as low as 18 Thursday in the north section of the state.

Growers in the Lake Okechobee vegetable area reported their crops 50 to 100 per cent destroyed by the freeze.

Scattered damage was reported

Air Force Twin Jet Voodoo Sets New Record of 1,207 Miles Hour

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new world speed record for manned flight was set Thursday by Air Force Maj. Adrian E. Drew, 37, streaking across a 10.1-mile course at an average 1,207.6 miles per hour.

Drew, in a twin-jet F101A Voodoo fighter bomber, broke the British-held world mark of 1,132 miles an hour, set in March, 1956, in a Fairey Delta aircraft.

The flight at 39,000 feet, was timed by clock cameras at Edwards Air Force Base and certified by a group of timers from the National Aeronautic Assn. It will be submitted to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale of Paris.

The new record is far below speeds attained by military research aircraft in flights made without official timers.

Capt. Milburn G. Apt set an to Florida's 50-million-dollar citrus crop and growers hurried to harvest oranges and grapefruit to prevent further damage.

The most tragic fire killed eight persons, six of them children when a Negro tenant family's frame home was destroyed by flames in Ellabell, Ga. The blaze was blamed on an overheated woodstove.

The United Press count of fire victims by states included 10 in Virginia, 8 each in Georgia and Kentucky, 2 each in North and South Carolina and Alabama, and 1 each in Florida, Illinois, Texas and Pennsylvania.

82 Bulbs Lighted On Salvation Army Tree of Lights

Eighty-two bulbs have been illuminated on the Salvation Army's Tree of Lights on the southwest corner of the courtyard.

A total of 200 bulbs have been placed on the tree and all are lighted between now and Christmas the Salvation Army will have $1,000, which the organization needs badly.

Yesterday members of the B and PW club manned the kettles for the Tree of Lights program and collected $271. Later in the day Rotary club members took over and collected $54.18. Regular workers during the week took in $95.53. Added to the $241.37 previously collected this made a total of $413.79 of the $1,000 goal collected which means 82 lights will be burning tonight.

Tomorrow morning the Harrisburg Woman's club will take over the kettles. The Harrisburg Lions club will be in charge from noon until 5 p. m.

Elmer Partain Dies in Louisiana

Elmer Partain, brother of Ben Partain, Gaskins City, who resided in Lafayette, La., died at 4:30 p. m. Thursday. Bill Partain and Mrs. Ada Luster of the Dykersburg community are his brother and sister, also. No funeral announcement has been made.

It was not air, he said, for one county to "bear its full share of the tax burden locally" and be penalized in the distribution of state school aid, for example, because other counties "drag their feet" and make too-low assessments.

One of the state school aid programs is based on the difference between the amount of taxes collected locally and the $200 per pupil per year guarantee by the state.

Thus the less a county collects in taxes locally, the greater the school aid funds it might claim for its school districts.

Stratton said assessment practices were poor in many areas of Illinois, and in some cases were a "farce and a fraud." The 1957 Legislature, he said, sought to give "the counties some incentive" to improve their assessments by providing an appropriation to help pay the salaries of county assessment supervisors.

The 1957 Legislature also enacted legislation to force equalization of assessment between the township in the same county. That should further improve the tax equalization situation when it

Supervisors Approve $228,690 Budget

The Saline County Board of Supervisors, in session until after 5 p. m. Thursday, approved a budget of $228,690 for general county operations.

A long afternoon session was devoted almost exclusively to a study of the proposed budget, appropriation and levy for the coming year.

The $228,690.00 is for general expenses of operating the government of Saline county and receipts will be from taxes and fees earned. An estimated $75,000 in tax receipts will be from the 12 1/2 cent levy approved for county purposes.

Other appropriations and levies that are the responsibility of the Board of Supervisors, and approved at Thursday's meeting: for road and bridge purposes, $60,000 appropriation and 10 cent levy; for care and treatment of TB patients, $42,750 appropriation and 6 cent levy; for Municipal Retirement, $9,000 appropriation and .015 levy; for Child Welfare, $6,000 appropriation and .01 levy; Egyptian Health Department, $29,000 appropriation and .05 levy.

Approve Fund Transfer

Each item in the budget and appropriation ordinance and each levy was read by Supervisor A. K. Gates, member of the finance, and discussed at length before coming to a vote.

Other action taken:

Approved transfer of funds from three inactive accounts, Liquor License $135.11, Unclaimed Heirs $658.71 and Veterans Assistance $487.11, plus $8,000 from Fee Earned to the General Fund.

Approved an expenditure from Motor Fuel Funds for $80,000 to repair Dewey Street in Eldorado and $150,000 for repair on a road south of Carrier Mills and also approved a resolution adding a 3.75 mile stretch of road in Independence township to the Saline county state aid road system.

Instructed the County Clerk to order rabies tags for 1958 and to have "Saline County" inscribed on each tag.

Winkelman Makes Report

The Industrial Planning Commission has been redesignated the Regional Planning Commission, it was stated, and the committee members representing the Board of Supervisors were appointed to continue working with the commission. Board members are Ewell Winkelman, Harrisburg; Raymond Fields, Carrier Mills; Aubrey Giles, Eldorado. Provisions were made in the budget for funds to defray expenses of the committee.

Ewell Winkelman made a report on activities in connection with efforts to attract industry to this area and a letter of appreciation from the Saline County Bankers Association for the efforts being made by the Board of Supervisors to improve the economy of Saline county was read and placed on file.

Chairman Kenneth Jackson appointed Eugene Irvin, Harrisburg business man, to the Welfare Services committee, succeeding Rev. William Fuson, resigned.

The last official act of the day was to go on record as approving the efforts being made to establish an engineering school at Southern Illinois University and the County Clerk was instructed to write letters to appropriate persons stating the board's action.

No Back-Down from Policy

Gov. Stratton Upholds Revenue Dep't in Higher Tax Multipliers

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. Stratton said Thursday the state Revenue Department is following the "spirit and intent" of the law in raising tax multipliers in most counties, and indicated there would be no general back-down from the policy.

The governor said he will discuss the situation with Revenue Director Richard J. Lyons Tuesday, but gave little assurance that he was not satisfied with the county multiplier increases, raising county assessments near full value.

He hinted, however, that multipliers now assigned tentatively may be lowered slightly in some counties where property valuations have risen very rapidly in the recent past.

The governor said at a news conference that multipliers were applied to equalize tax assessments among counties, and it would be unfair to counties not to equalize assessments.

Cites School Aid

It was not air, he said, for one county to "bear its full share of the tax burden locally" and be penalized in the distribution of state school aid, for example, because other counties "drag their feet" and make too-low assessments.

One of the state school aid programs is based on the difference between the amount of taxes collected locally and the $200 per pupil per year guarantee by the state.

Thus the less a county collects in taxes locally, the greater the school aid funds it might claim for its school districts.

Stratton said assessment practices were poor in many areas of Illinois, and in some cases were a "farce and a fraud." The 1957 Legislature, he said, sought to give "the counties some incentive" to improve their assessments by providing an appropriation to help pay the salaries of county assessment supervisors.

The 1957 Legislature also enacted legislation to force equalization of assessment between the township in the same county. That should further improve the tax equalization situation when it goes into effect next year, the governor said.

He said that in the past 10 years assessed valuations in the counties have slumped from about 70 per cent, of full value to less than 50 per cent. At the same time, he said, actual values have been increasing steadily.

The Revenue Department is required by law to apply multipliers to try to bring assessed valuations closer to full value, Stratton said. Increased multipliers themselves, he said, will not necessarily mean higher taxes. Local taxing bodies may reduce their tax levies, and thereby their tax rates, to reflect the higher valuations caused by the multipliers, the governor said.

Laborer, 80, Dies; Leaves $425,000 Estate

BELEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — An 80-year-old laborer who died in East St. Louis Aug. 19 left an estimated estate of $425,000, according to an inventory filed Thursday in the St. Clair County Probate Court.

Most of the estate of George Kauffman, a bachelor who lived in a rented East St. Louis house, was in "blue chip" securities.

A spokesman for the Southern Illinois National Bank, the executor of the estate, said Kauffman's estate was accumulated through the purchase of stocks and their dividends.

Kauffman, formerly of Du Quoin, bequeathed 25 per cent of his estate to the First Evangelical Church of Du Quoin, and directed that 50 per cent be divided by two cousins, Mrs. George Rhodes, Tamaroa, and Mrs. Frank Frisch, Red Bud.

The remaining 25 per cent was left to six Du Quoin organizations.

Zeigler Condition Remains Critical

John Zeigler, 18-year-old former Harrisburg Township high school athlete, remained in critical condition in a Kirksville, Mo., hospital following a auto crash Wednesday night.

A telephone call to Harrisburg last night said he was not in good enough condition to be x-rayed so that the extent of his injuries could be determined. He suffered head and possible internal injuries.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Logsdon of this city, and other relatives are with him. His companion, Thomas Hutchinson, 18, of Hammond, Ind., where Zeigler was employed, was killed instantly when the Zeigler car left the highway and hit a tree.

Young Zeigler, who was graduated from HTHS this year, was first string football player on the 1956 football team and also lettered in basketball and baseball.

Mrs. Elsie Dunning of Bankston community reported to The Daily Register that she saw a round, white object in the sky this morning.

It is believed Mrs. Dunning saw a large weather balloon.

Earlier in the morning people in St. Louis saw a round, white object in the sky, which was identified by telescope viewers at St. Louis university as being a huge weather balloon floating in the atmosphere about 39,000 or 40,000 feet high.

Russia Asks For Peaceful Coexistence

Lodge Says Peace Cannot Be Built Solely on Speeches

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United States today welcomed Russia's latest appeal for "peaceful coexistence," but told the United Nations that Americans "are from Missouri—we want to be shown."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov Thursday night asked the General Assembly's Main Political Committee to approve a declaration for peaceful coexistence. In an unusual mild and conciliatory speech he called for a treaty between the United States and Russia and for expansion "in an all-around way" of "scientific, cultural and other ties."

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, replying today, told the committee:

"We would be delighted to be able to believe that one speech here at the U. N.—delivered, by coincidence, on the eve of the NATO meetings—means that the trend that has been building up in the Soviet Union for 40 years has been reversed.

"Want to be Shown"

"None would be happier than the people and government of the United States to see this Soviet speech followed by a real change in Soviet behavior. That would suit us right down to the ground.

"But we want to be shown. When it comes to such a sudden change as this we, in American slang, are from Missouri . . .

"Mr. Kuznetsov's speech was milder than the very rough speeches which Mr. (Andrei A.) Gromyko (Soviet foreign minister) made here a few weeks ago on the Syrian item and on disarmament. But, Mr. Chairman, peace in the world cannot be built simply and solely on mildness of speeches. It must also be built on actions.

"There is really quite a gap between what Mr. Kuznetsov says and what the Soviet Union does. We cannot contribute to peace by ignoring that gap."

Lodge welcomed Kuznetsov's appeal for scientific and technical contracts as "something we have long believed in and sought to practice with other countries." He asked Russia to widen its cooperation with the rest of the world in the International Atomic Energy Agency and at next year's U.N.-sponsored international scientific conference.

Cites Unfair Criticisms

Lodge also welcomed Kuznetsov's appeal for extensive economic aid. He noted that the assembly's Economic and Financial Committee only Thursday approved a new technical aid program "insulated from any possible use for big power politics—and that's the way we like to have it."

He also noted that Kuznetsov expressed desire for a disarmament agreement, and said he hoped "this means the Soviet Union

Keep Record Straight in '58!

The U. S. Internal Revenue Service made a wise decision when it put off to 1958 the effective operation of new rules governing personal account reporting on income tax returns.

The rules would compel individuals to show in greater detail than ever before the expenses they have incurred which they regard as deductible items in calculating their tax.

It was obviously both foolish and unfair to announce such rules in November to apply on income tax calculations for the calendar year 1957. Most individuals are unlikely to have kept such personal records as would permit reasonable compliance with the Internal Revenue order.

The year 1958 is another matter.
Taxpayers are now on notice that they must keep close track of all deductible expenditures henceforth. For, in its perfectly proper desire to curb abuses in this field, the agency intends to examine those accounts hereafter with a jeweler's glass.

Matter of FACT

Under the terms of the 1803
Louisiana Purchase, the United States acquired from France land that was to become nine entire states and major parts of four other states at the fantastic price of about four cents an acre. Of the total purchase price of $15,000,000, one-fourth of the amount was kept by the United States to pay off claims of its citizens against France.

No Special Session For SIU Request for Engineering Courses

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Stratton said today he will refer a request for legislation to permit Southern Illinois University to offer engineering courses to the new state commission on higher education.

Southern Illinois Inc., an area development group, had requested that Stratton call a special session of the Legislature to enact such legislation. Proposed legislation authorizing engineering courses at SIU were defeated in the 1957 Legislature.

The development group had urged Stratton to take immediate action in an effort to help solve the nation's engineer shortage.

The governor said he would not call a special session of the Legislature to consider the request, but he would refer it to the new highway education commission for possible recommendations.

WASHINGTON.—Some of the confusion in the missile-satellite program which gave the Russians a billion dollars worth of propaganda when our Sputnik went kaput in Florida, was highlighted during the recent White House conference with congressional leaders. Sen. Clinton Anderson, New Mexico Democrat, grilled the new secretary of defense, Neil McElroy, unmercifully regarding our snafus.

"The Navajo missile was started in 1946," he pointed out, "and terminated 1956. It was an air-breathing missile, yet it went above 65,000 feet where there isn't any air to breathe. North American Aviation, which was manufacturing it, knew this. Yet North American continued making the Navajo until 1956 at a cost to the taxpayers of $700,000,000. Why?"

"Well, we stopped it," replied Deputy Defense Secretary Donald Quarles. "Was that a good job or not?"

"It sure was" replied the senator from New Mexico, proceeding immediately to other duplications in the missile program.

"You've got the Little John and the Honest John," he pointed out. "They're both about the same. The Little John has a range of 15 miles, the Honest John a range of 20 miles. They're both classified as artillery weapons. They both use solid fuel, both are produced for the Army, one by Emerson Electric and Douglas, the other by Douglas and Hercules Powder."

"Why this duplication? Are we just trying to help the aviation companies pay dividends?"

"Then there are the Sergeant and the Corporal. Both are artillery weapons, both produced for the Army, the Sergeant with a range of 50 miles, the Corporal with a range of 75 miles. Can anyone tell me the real difference in the mission of the two?"

"There is one very interesting development in the Sergeant," Anderson was told.

Anderson, who is chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, is an expert on nuclear weapons. He claimed that the administration needed a central office of missile control, and he continued citing examples.

"Here is the Dart. It's an anti-tank missile. It darts up and down and all over the landscape. It's a pretty missile. But it's built to fight tanks. And can anyone tell me that tanks will be moving in the next war?"

To this the answer was no answer. The senator from New Mexico went on to point out that the Defense Department was turning out five different missiles with a range of 5,000 miles.

"I realize that these carry different types of fuel," he said, "but the point is that they all carry hydrogen warheads and they all travel 5,000 miles—the Titan, the Atlas, the Snark, and possibly Pluto and R-ver."

At this point President Eisenhower, who had been listening carefully, interrupted.

"The Snark isn't a ballistic missile," he corrected.

"That's true," replied Anderson, "but my point is: Do you need five separate missiles to go 5,000 miles?"

As Anderson continued probing Secretary McElroy regarding inter-service rivalry which he said not only confused the missile program but cost the taxpayers extra money, Eisenhower broke in again, this time pounding the table.

He said he meant no offense against the senator, but that there were a great many so-called "experts" who seemed to know more about missiles than competent authorities in defense agencies.

He said our "best brains" had been at work on the program and that he had to rely on their judgment.

and satellite projectiles that had been under development. He added that the missiles field was so "enormous and technical" that it was not surprising if there were differences of opinion between the military services.

"I myself am not an expert on this question and have never aimed to be," the President insisted. He made a sweeping gesture with his arm, as though to emphasize the magnitude of the problem.

"Sometimes my desk has been covered with plans of missiles in various stages of development," he continued. "I think you gentlemen will agree that it can be rather confusing. I know I have been confused at times. But I am nonetheless convinced that we are in good shape and that it won't be long before we demonstrate our leadership in missiles and satellites."

This did not answer the questions of his Democratic guests but they did not pursue the interrogation further.

Wacky Accidents

Doctor Is Vaccinated by Own Cow, Landscaper Saws Himself Off Limb

CHICAGO (UP) — Ever hear about the doctor who was vaccinated by a cow, or about the landscaper who got himself out on a limb and then sawed himself off?

The National Safety Council did, and listed them in its 1957 record of wacky accidents. Others include a dog catcher who was bitten by a lady and a dog who got a traffic ticket.

These and other mishaps logged by the council prove that life can be gruesome, zany and dangerous even when you're looking.

Take Dr. J. Guy Jones, Wadsworth, N. C., who was starting a cow in the eye, ready to lose a syringe full of vaccine into the bovine when it lunged at him, vaccinating veterinarian Jones instead.

In Olympia, Wash., a father's first look at his wife as she was wheeled from the delivery room was almost fatal. John Arends, in the excitement of rushing to kiss his wife, inhaled a heady dose of ether, passed out cold, hit the floor face-first and shattered two teeth.

Dog Gets Ticket

And you're never too far along or too high up to learn something new. Just think of Harry Westcott, a professional landscaper at Mount Upton, N. Y. Harry knows you shouldn't cut off the branch you're sitting on. But unfortunately he sawed off the limb holding his safety rope.

Human beings weren't the only freak accident victims. Besides the cow who didn't want to be vaccinated, there's the dog who didn't want to be ticketed. Police found the dog at the wheel of a car that rolled out of a San Diego driveway and crashed into a porch across the street.

When Jack, the dog, climbed in-

Painful symptoms may be relieved, only to re-occur later when a cure is more difficult.

By CAROL Bainbridge

Hi there!

We've really been busy this week on practicing on our annual Christmas program. The program will be presented Friday night, Dec. 20, at 7:30. The public is invited to attend.

Miss Thelma Frederick of Eldorado is teaching string music to the pupils of the school. She has a nice little band and lessons are given each Tuesday afternoon at the school.

Mr. Smith and Miss Casey are taking an art course at Marion. The classes are held each Monday night.

The P. T. A. sponsored a supper recently. The proceeds will be used toward the purchasing of new dishes for the lunch room. The next P. T. A. meeting will be held Tuesday night, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m. The 4-H group and their leader Mrs. Ethel Richardson, will present a Christmas program and refreshments will be served. Every one is welcomed to attend this meeting.

The seventh and eighth grades received a nice Christmas card and pictures of the two classes for each pupil from Mrs. Georgia Cox, substitute teacher of those two grades during Mrs. Nulty's absence.

I would like to end by column this week on a glad note. We defeated Creal Springs basketball team Tuesday night 55-47. Lindell Taylor was high scorer with 24 points, and Darrell David Roberts was high scorer for the "B" team with 25 points.

See you next week.

CREAL SPRINGS NEWS

By H. L. MOTSINGER

WHOO! BEAR REPORTED SEEN IN CREAL SPRINGS

One of Creal Springs' prominent citizens is reporting wild animal news.

Mr. Z... states that he saw an animal in his back yard, which was black and the very resemblance of a cub bear. He said the dogs were very much alarmed and took off.

Now we need some Boones and Crocketts, and to save our necks we don't find any around Creal Springs.

Mesdames Essie Williams, Mildred Upchurch, Ruth Newbolds and Lucille Bradley, all of Creal Springs, accompanied by Vi Russell of New Burnside, were visitors in Paducah, Ky., Tuesday.

Mrs. Annie Motsinger, accompanied by Miss Rebecca Smith, visited with Mrs. Dorothy Adkins in West Frankfort Friday.

The following were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oakes, who celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oakes and three children of Aurora, Mrs. Margie Fromm and two sons of Carmi, Mrs. Lucille Stanard, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jones, Grantsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lawrence of Ozark.

Mr. and Mrs. Behnie Holmes have returned from a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd in Peoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Kelley of Melrose Park were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Adams Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Thompson and son, Dean, were visiting relatives in Campbell, Mo., Sunday.

The Creal Springs Lions club realized $72 from its pie supper Friday night, in spite of the rain. Proceeds are used by the club to furnish treats for the children of Creal Springs.

Union church services will be held Wednesday night, Dec. 18, at the Church of God in Creal Springs, where the Rev. A. E. Austin is pastor. Rev. Paul Moss pastor of the Creal Northern Baptist Church will be the speaker. A cordial invitation is extended to all the churches.

COMMUNITY SING

The regular Community sing was held Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at the First Baptist church in Creal Springs, with the Rev. Freeman Wharry in charge. The next Community sing will be held Sunday, Jan. 12, at the Northern Baptist church in Creal Springs, where the Rev. Paul Moss is pastor.

Gerald Brown of Elgin spent a portion of the week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Evetts.

Rev. Curtis Rogers of Johnston City filled the pulpit at the Creal Northern Baptist church Sunday night.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS IN CREAL SPRINGS

Beautiful decorations, emblematic of the Christmas spirit, are in evidence among the Creal Springs business enterprises. Electric colored lights are being placed across Blue avenue to add more attractive color to the scene.

W.S.C.S. HOLDS CHRISTMAS MEETING

The Woman's Society of Christian Service held its Christmas meeting Monday night at the home of Mrs. Beatrice McGowan. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Verna Lee Cosby. The group sang "I Love to Tell the Story," followed by prayer by Mrs. Cosby.

Minutes of the past meeting were read and approved and roll call was by an expression of thankfulness for the great Gift, the son of God to the world.

Mrs. Madge Simmons was program leader and read the 96th Psalm. The lesson was "The March of Missions in Evangelism." Meditation was given by Mrs. Simmons and talks were given on Home Missionary Meditations by Mrs. Ruth Taylor, Mrs. Maude Jones, Mrs. Ella Camden, Mrs. Fern Reed and Mrs. Lucille Colp. Talks on missionary experiences in Korea were given by Mildred Thomas, Bernice McGowan, Opal Lee, Verna Lee Cosby and Linda Robertson. ## Farm Bureau Asks Less Controls for Corn Farmers; Re-Elects Shuman

CHICAGO (AP) — The board of directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation today met to implement a convention-approved program calling for reduced government controls over farming.

The 22-man board of the nation's largest farm organization, representing almost 1,600,000 rural families in this country and Puerto Rico, will act on resolutions passed Thursday at the closing session of the AFBF's five-day meeting.

The resolutions call for gradual reduction of government control over the corn farmer, a referendum to see if wheat farmers want to give up marketing quotas, and higher soil bank payments.

Charles B. Shuman, 50, a Sullivan, Ill., stock and grain farmer, was re-elected president and Walter L. Randolph, 52, Montgomery, Ala., vice president.

Seek Free Markets
A resolution calling for an end to corn allotments won overwhelming approval from the delegates. Future price supports would be set up at levels which "will encourage orderly marketing, avoid stimulating unnecessary production and halt the movement of grain into government storage."

A referendum among wheat producers involving marketing quotas offered a choice of present price supports, bulwarked with strict controls to eliminate surpluses, and a program providing lower supports with farmers producing and marketing as much as they desire.

The AFBF also asked that higher payments be made to farmers who shift acres to grass and trees, that pay ceilings to individual farmers for retiring land from crops be done away with, and that land placed in the bank not be used for harvesting or grazing.

Shuman and Randolph, with the backing of other AFBF leaders, will take the federation's program to Congress next month and make its views known.

Farmers also were asked to make a "special effort" to put en-

U. S. Welcomes Appeal By Russia, Lodge Says

will retract its threat not to cooperate with the Disarmament Commission.

But, Lodge said, Kuznetsov's speech contained "many unfair criticisms and innuendoes against the United States" including:

—The Russian deplored propaganda in the press and over the radio "yet this country is the greatest single source of such propaganda and is in the best position to stop it since it maintains a monopoly over both press and radio."

—Kuznetsov complained of "the gigantic arms race" yet Russia "devotes a greater percentage of its capacity to arms than any country in the world and now says it will boycott the Disarmament Commission."

—The Soviet diplomat denounced seizing foreign territory, or demanding selfish privileges abroad, "yet the Soviet Union since 1939 has included within its border 264,000 square miles inhabited by over 24 million people."

—Kuznetsov spoke of "colonial imperialism" but "what he complains of is just what the Soviet Union did in the case of Hungary."

—He complained of the "threat of force" yet "there are 22 countries, my own included, which were threatened in 1957 with atomic devastation."

—The Russian demanded that war propaganda be stopped "but it was the Soviet Union which promoted the leading war scare of 1957 right here in the U. N. when it alleged that the United States was masterminding an alleged attack on Syria."

Eisenhower Flies to Paris Late Today for NATO Summit Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower flies to Paris Saturday morning to land in Paris Saturday morning.

Russia threw a warning at Britain against being a base for NATO missiles on the eve of the attempt to weld the West into a stronger scientific and military unit. The warning was contained in a 3,000 word letter from Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin to British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

There was no indication whether Eisenhower would reply to Bulganin before or after the Paris meeting. But a State Department official said the reply would "try to be as affirmative as possible" when it comes.

Precaution Taken
Every precaution was being taken to insure the President's safe flight across the ocean. British and American warships have been deployed along the route in the event the plane is forced down.

The mission promised to be one of the most critical of the former allied supreme commander's career. The President will seek to create new missile bases on the European continent and establish nuclear weapons stockpiles as two major deterrents to Russia touching off an atomic World War III.

Eisenhower also will seek formulation of a weapons agreement and an arrangement to pool scientific information among the allies. All these objectives involve complex problems which must be solved before they become a reality.

Ike Leaves Today
Eisenhower was scheduled to leave for Paris aboard the Columbus III late today. He is expected to land in Paris Saturday morning.

Such a reply was urged by Adlai E. Stevenson, two-time Democratic presidential opponent, who said the Allies must continue to try and negotiate a settlement with the East "not by capitulation, but by agreement."

Tar Heels Extend Winning Streak to 35 Games in 91-74 Victory Over Furman

By United Press

National champion North Carolina moved a bit farther ahead of the pack by running its winning streak to 35 games today even as some of the country's lesser basketball lights hoped to increase their own stature in three holiday tournaments starting tonight.

The Tar Heels, who won 32 games in a row last year, nailed down their third straight victory of the current season by defeating Furman, 91-74, at Charlotte, N. C., Thursday night.

In the first round of the Cincinnati Invitational at Cincinnati, Ohio, St. Bonaventure opposes Cincinnati while Xavier of Ohio faces Marshall.

Tourney Opens Tonight

The Steel Bowl tournament at Pittsburgh also opens tonight with Duquesne meeting Miami of Ohio, and Pittsburgh tangling with George Washington.

And the Birmingham classic tournament gets underway at Birmingham, Ala., with Mississippi State playing Miami (Fla.), and Auburn facing Texas Christian.

Pete Brennan, six-foot, six-inch senior from Brooklyn, and sophomore Lee Schaffer of North Carolina dominated the backboards Thursday night. Brennan had 31 points and Schaffer had 28.

Iowa State survived a rocky first half to beat Brigham Young 54-45 at Provo, Utah. John Crawford paced the winners with 20 points.

Dartmouth Wins

Dartmouth spurred to an early lead and won its fourth game in a row by beating the University of Houston 84-64, at Hanover, N. H.

St. John's of New York also made it four in a row with an 85-73 triumph over Washington and Lee at Madison Square Garden in the opener of the twin-bill, the University of Louisville won an 85-65 decision over Iona of New Rochelle, N. Y.

In other leading games, Princeton trounced Upsala, 72-56; Oklahoma defeated Southern Methodist, 66-58; Bowling Green topped Canisius, 78-65; Richmond won its fourth straight victory by licking Texas A & M, 70-50; VMI beat Roanoke, 82-77 in overtime; Utah walloped Los Angeles State, 71-59, and Oregon State upset 13th-ranked Seattle, 63-55.

Annual Eldorado Grid Banquet Monday Night

The Eldorado Township high school's annual football banquet and letter-awarding ceremony will be staged Monday night in the ETHS cafeteria, starting at 6:30. Coach Al Adams has announced.

Coach Adams stated plans were to make this year's affair "something special" and representatives from six universities have been invited to attend.

Southern Illinois University, the University of Illinois and Murray State College, Kentucky, have accepted the invitation. The University of Illinois will have at least two representatives of the athletic department present. They will fly down and be met by ETHS officials at the Harrisburg-Raleigh airport.

Also invited to attend are representatives of the University of Michigan, Vanderbilt University and the University of Missouri. Adams said he expects a favorable response from Michigan and Vanderbilt, but the football situation at Missouri is "up in the air" at present with the head coach and some of his staff resigning only recently.

Eldorado's 1957 football season was one of the best in the school's history with a 9-0 record and a number of the senior players are interested in going to college and colleges have shown much interest in the players.

Monday evening the boys and their parents will have an opportunity to talk with the university people. "We think it will be a fine thing for everyone to have these university representatives with us," Adams declared.

Sophomores Seen Key to Conference Title in Big Ten Basketball Race

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten, supposedly, isn't a "sophomore league," but this year the rookies could be the keys to the conference basketball title.

Though Big Ten teams have played in only 26 games so far, 17 sophomores have been starters and every team's I. league has played newcomers part of the way.

Some rookies have been key men. For instance, 6-foot 7-inch sophomore center Ron Johnson, though starting only one game, has dropped 54 points with a high game of 26 to spark Minnesota to three victories without a loss. And Gopher sophomore Marlo Miller has started every game at guard, scoring 34 points.

Indiana, though beaten in its first two games for only the second time in history, has started 6-foot 8-inch Frank Radovich in both games and he's netted 26 points with 19 in a single game. Equally important is that canny Branch McCracken has found the two guards he sought in sophomores Allen Schlegelmilch and Bob Wilkinson, 6 footers with speed, fast hands, sharp passing ability, and good shooting accuracy.

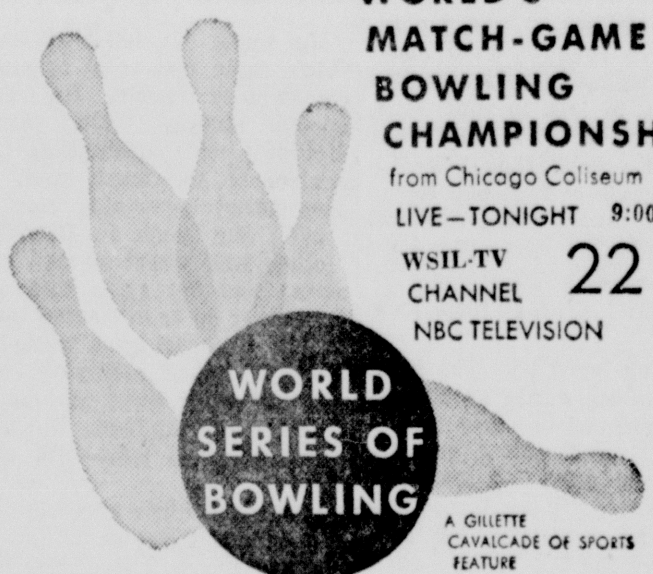

A pair of sophomores from Edwardsville, Ill., have become the

THE STORY: Wayne Howell interrupts the conversation between Jim Bennett and Sandra Osterman. Bennett, a private investigator, has been retained by Wayne's father, Hugo, to investigate Sandra's background. Jim believes Wayne and Sandra are married.

XI

He stared at me for a second, and then said shortly, "I want you to leave her alone—and me, too. I warned you last night." His blue eyes were dark with anger.

I smiled at him. "Take it easy, Wayne. I've been thinking about our conversation last night and I just wanted to talk to you. And, frankly, now that I've met your wife I can't understand your father's objection to her. She seems like a very nice person. Anyway, I'm on kind of a spot—and want you to help me."

"Help you?" he asked suspiciously.

"Yes. You know why I'm here, and I'll put my cards on the table." I continued to smile at him in what I hoped was a friendly fashion, and tried to look and sound sincere. "Your father has hired me for a certain job and, just between the two of us, I don't want to do it. But I'm working under orders from my superiors. If you'll give your side of this thing, it'll help." I realized that since meeting the woman named Sandra Osterman I'd lost most of the scruples I'd had about doing the job for which Hugo Howell had originally wanted to hire me. She certainly did not seem the proper type for a quiet, serious, studious young man like Wayne Howell. Maybe if I was a father I'd feel the same way. And I had no doubt that I could break up the alliance if I wanted to.

A little of the anger had left Wayne's eyes, but he was still suspicious. "I don't understand, sir," he said quietly.

I was pleased with the "sir." It showed that I was making a little progress. I said to him sincerely, man to man, "Wayne, I mean it. I want to help you."

"You can't change my feelings about Sandra. Nothing you can do will separate us. She's my wife."

I thought bleakly of a number of things I could do to turn him against Sandra, even if he was really married to her. I said, "When were you married?"

"It's none of your business," he said, "but we were married three days ago in Kentucky. Sandra's brother went along as best man."

"Then the full amount of the trust fund is now yours?"

"So Father told you about that," he said bitterly. "That's all he cares about—the money."

"Why didn't you tell him you were married?"

"He'll find out soon enough. I sent a photostat copy of the certificate to the bank in Detroit. They'll notify him."

"He's your father," I said gently. "The least you could have done was tell him you were getting married."

He shook his head stubbornly. "He'd have just tried to stop us, cause more trouble. He's caused enough already, trying to break Mother's will, attempting to get control of the trust fund. He's squandered everything else away—even our home in Detroit—but Mother was smart enough to look ahead and set aside this money for me. If he hadn't acted the way he has, I might have waited until I was 25 before marrying Sandra, and he would have automatically received half the fund. But Sandra didn't want to wait—and neither did I."

"Your wife knew about the terms of the trust agreement?"

"Of course. There are no secrets between us."

"And now your father is out in the cold without a cent?"

"Of course not. No matter how he—he treated my mother, he's still my father. I've instructed the bank to send him $200 a month for life."

"He can't live on that—not the way he's been living."

His mouth set stubbornly. "He'll have to. Sandra says it's plenty for an old man. He won't starve."

"Sandra says?" I said, thinking that no matter what my opinion of Hugo Howell, he was still my client. "Who's the boss? You or your wife?"

His eyes flashed and he said hotly, "My mother earned it! If it hadn't been for her, he would have spent it long ago, on gambling and drinking." He took a menacing step toward me. "And I don't like your remark about Sandra."

"Sorry," I said, watching him. I was a full head taller than he, but he was built like a fullback and I didn't want any scuffling with him. "I guess there's nothing more to say. Goodbye, Wayne."

"Get out," he said, and he didn't add "sir."

When I reached the path at the edge of the woods I turned and looked back. He was still standing in the sunlight watching me. Behind him the screen door opened and the woman came out. She was still wearing the bathing suit.

I paused to light a cigarette, and as I did so I caught a flash of something white ahead of me. It was along the path on my right, beside a clump of low evergreens. I drew on the cigarette and strolled along the path and when I was
